Dear President Trump,

I am a retired Australian Teacher who enjoys following American politics and the rise of a Republican Party (whose underpinning values and governance, come from their Christian beliefs) who is becoming a government for all the people. Unfortunately for a long time, the Republican Party has been an advocate for the Great American Dream which has become just a dream for too many people. To curb the rise of socialism in America I offer some ideas that would enable the Republican Party to empower millions of American citizens in a non-socialistic way.

A Community Future

NEWCOMS – New Super Communities

Because Governments are often controlled, dictated to and influenced by corporations the only way 'the people' can create communities that benefit them and not corporations is to build community-based policies and programs into government. There is no personal freedom as the constitution clearly outlines if 'the people' cannot be the masters of their own destinies.

With obscene medical, food, housing, pharmaceutical and other living costs it has become time for people to decide if they want to create independent powerful communities by their own hand or comply robot-like to corporation controlled governments. Whose country is this?

There is a long history of corruption, power, high positions in society, self-serving politicians and profit orienteered cultural economics. This book offers alternatives, methods, to change how the rich and powerful control normal people for their benefit and profit. The rise of socialism in America is a testament that capitalism is out of control and there needs be a restart of economical models in America before it is too late. If socialism does take hold the greedy corporations and corrupt governments will rue the day they didn't take action.

It requires everyone to 'hands up' and take responsibility for their lives and create environments and communities that truly reflect their values and beliefs.

I suggest that wherever you are on the economic ladder this book has ideas that only need community harmony to bear fruit. We have all lived under the rule of Kings forever which includes Governments. There are times this works and times like now where it is an abject failure. As the globalists try to push us towards world government we need to match this with an alternative push to true local community government. Who knows? In the next five years, we all may have to decide whether to be communityists or globalists. Nature or Robot lovers, sustainablits or destroyers.

The fact that facebook and twitter are now controlling everything that people are saying is a wake-up call, don't you think?

Common sense can play a part in the future. No one needs to suffer from lack of food, housing, health care and education. America is a good example of capitalism out of control: a very serious problem. The richest country in the world and also one of the poorest. It doesn't make sense: totally out of balance. I don't think a socialist system is an answer: redistribution of wealth. Rather a capitalist system with real profit sharing for every worker that includes training and inclusive management roles.

This book is an intuitive, 60s historical, commonsensical, sustainable and happyessical production that just may give enough people enough new ideas (including politicians) so that everyone on the planet, wherever they are born, inherits an equal share of life as God has decreed. No one can have an equal relationship with god if it is not equal here on Earth. The Declaration of Independence says that "all men are created equal." That "they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

Super Nurses

Skyrocketing health costs can be stopped easily. Stop letting Doctors charge obscene amounts of money. This can be done by creating "super nurses" The government needs to make it possible for fully qualified nurses to study 2 more years to become super nurses. This would enable them to manage most outpatients in hospitals and quite a lot of in patients too.

They can have their own clinics like in Thailand where nurses can deal with everyday cases like the flu, injuries and sell basic medicines. This would take national health care off the table in its current form. There would be two outcomes: the first would be affordable health care with or without insurance. The second outcome would be a first-tier national health scheme "The Super Nurse Health Scheme" It would be very affordable. I was shocked when reading about a woman going to the hospital "just to make sure" she was ok after a bee sting and was charged $10,000 for a checkup and one injection. The Republican Party is supporting theft by stealth (uncontrolled, unregulated pricing) by doctors. Part of their extra training would be the use of orthomolecular and herbal medicine using a manual approved by the government. Why are herbs so taboo these days?

Another way health costs can be reduced is a national health promotion scheme in all schools advocating the use of organic food, orthomolecular medicine and herbal treatments that have passed all rigorous research like Turmeric. Most herbs and vitamins are extremely effective and cheap. The Republican Party has a high percentage of Christians who should be supporting the use and protection of God's creation: including herbs, fruits, vegetables and minerals, not just man's creation of wealth.

And another way is to start a forced health savings scheme from the moment a child is born. For every dollar that people put into the scheme, the government will match with a dollar. A maximum amount would be 1 dollar per day. All medical fees would be regulated for example. An injection for a bee sting: $50 maximum. This money would be invested like in Australia with superannuation.

Drugs, mental health and homelessness

Live on a kibbutz and rebuild your life

The homeless problem which is now out of control in many places in America like Seattle is because of the joint problem of mental health, drugs and lack of income can be quickly solved by creating kibbutz's like in Israel. The Federal Government can round them all up (in a nice way) and take them to a kibbutz which would have dorm accommodation, hospital and kitchen for a minimum of 3 months.

The participants would not be in prison they would be told they have a new or temporary home. They would be fed and taken care of for 2 weeks while they come off drugs. Then they would work in community vegetable gardens, fruit orchards, and take care of cows for milk. They would also work in community kitchens cooking food for each other. Each person would have the option of leaving after 3 months after they have recovered somewhat from addictions, regained their health and have been counselled about their future life.

Everyone would also be given the option to stay forever. If they stayed they would be allocated a cottage house set of steel, cement blocks etc and the kibbutz members would help each person in turn to build a small cottage they can stay in. They would continue to work on the kibbutz sharing food and resources. There would be very clear rules in the kibbutz about everything including things like alcohol, ownership and weapons = NO. These rules would be in 2 parts. The first 3 months and the following months (a lifetime).

Otherwise, the homeless people will take over every sidewalk in America and make it look like Calcutta in India on a bad day.

Education

University study from home

The very high cost of education is not clearly represented in just teacher's wages. As health and education's costs continue to spiral out of control there is a need for a clear and workable solution. One solution is for University education to go online. This can happen if the Government accredits teachers to teach subjects and units online. Students can be given an online resource = website that clearly defines the courses, subjects and units for a Bachelor Degree and the connection details for all the teachers.

Students could continue to borrow money from the government for their degree at a 1/8th of the price it is now. In this day and age, it would be easy to do, including the testing. The savings from cutting loose the real estate and administration costs of universities would be enormous. Universities would have the opportunity to provide their teachers for online teaching but this would mean they would continue to advocate for their own unsustainable existence causing pressure on the government for higher prices; they would have to compete with sole trading teachers offering their services. As mentioned before with doctors it is time for the government to side with the people, their employers, not capitalists. In doing so America will be fairer and sustainable. It will reduce costs substantially and avoid the hard change of direction into "SOCIALISM".

There are also ways for people to study in neighbourhood houses like in Australia. These houses/centres are funded by the Government and offer many resources including short courses, counselling and health. In one near me, there is a workshop where people learn to make things out of wood. There are also classes in basic computing and using the internet. The Opportunities are endless. If there is a group of people who want to study any topic and a teacher nearby then it can happen. There are fees for these courses but they are not high.

Income

Profit-sharing

There appear to be 2 ways to increase people's wages to a living wage of (or an average of) around $15 (Australia is $19).

"The current minimum wage in Australia is $740.80 per week, which equates to a minimum hourly rate of $19.49. The minimum wage is the absolute lowest that an employee can be paid. Feb 20, 2020"

The first way to improve wages is to do what Australia and other countries have done: create a minimum wage.

The second way would be to create profit sharing. The government would create a minimum wage of $14 or $15 and also create/mandate a profit-sharing scheme.

At the end of the financial year, a company or business would share 20% of their profits (equally) with all workers as a lump sum payment, which could be collected as a tax and distributed by the tax department or just documented for workers so that their employer can distribute it. An example would be: A business employs 10 people. It has an annual profit of 1 million Dollars. 20% of 1 million would be 200,000 shared with 10 people that is 20,000 per person. Which would equate to an extra 400 a week which would increase the hourly rate from $14 to $24 a bit above the Australian minimum wage. Again this is a way to avoid the SOCIALISM model that is becoming more popular in America due to very low incomes and very high costs.

Using America as an example there is a huge gap between the rich and poor. Unfortunately, rich people don't know how to help poor people so profit sharing is a great option. It means employees feel loved, they are able to pay their bills, they will be more interested in seeing the business flourish and prosper and being part of the business, not just a worker would make them feel valued. This current capitalist system where people like Bill Gates can make billions every year then choose who he donates all his spare cash to is patently wrong. If he has spare cash he needs to give it to his workers.

The business should pay less tax this way, have more loyal and productive workers and have a good feeling in their gut when they go to sleep at night.

Bartering schemes are a good way especially for people with low incomes to share their skills within their local community and be rewarded for their endeavours.

Super Communities

Self-governing and Self taxing

This can involve organic food markets, no 5G towers, bike lanes, playgrounds and parks, fruit trees, religious and racial harmony. It can also include trade schools, certified training, art galleries, and sports grounds.

I had a friend years ago that said government should be by consensus. A system where people have a say on what they want on everything. This democracy farce where people vote for one of two governments is not working. Most people would like to have an equal say about what happens in their city, state and country.

Are you worried about 5G? then vote against it in your Super Community and have a real say in your life. Quite a simple system: a meeting once a month, a show of hands: done.

What you really care about: crime, homelessness, health costs, expensive education, corruption, equality, spirituality, the environment, could all come to pass in a Super Community by show of hands.

The Power of 10

Money can be given every year by everyone on the planet on the 30th of June (with a celebration) to the UN and everyone can buy their way to heaven at the same time. The way this works: everyone on the planet gives 1/10 of their daily income, once, on the 30th of June to the UN. The money can be used for creating fish farms for village people, water bores with pumps, medicine, food, shelter, teachers, women's rights, victims of war, temporary housing, ecologically secure and sustainable energy and seeds.

We often feel powerless (I do) when we see disasters in the world. And think what can I do? Well, now you have the answer. If everyone on the planet does this on the same day Billions of dollars will be raised amplifying your $10 into a tractor or a new house and so much more. That is why this project is called the power of 10: because it amplifies and multiplies and changes the world.

Angels

It is time all angels stepped out of churches, the synagogues, temples, mosques and forests and donned an angel t-shirt and took calls from people in need.

Newcoms (someone living in a New Super Community) can start an Angel Service which people can volunteer to take calls at certain times from people who need help. If the angel can accommodate the call then they would go (in pairs) and help that person. if not, contact a relevant service within the community for help.

Everyone needs help sometimes so this service can go round, pass it on. Anyone receiving an angel service could be given an Angel T-shirt and then they get a chance to help someone else in the future.

There are many scenarios where this can work. Someone has run out of gas, they are short a few dollars at the supermarket, someone is lost, someone is hungry, someone is lonely, someone needs their light globe replaced, someone cannot find their dog. Like I said anything serious would be/ could be passed onto other organisations or departments.

Covd – 19

This virus is a menace to the world due to very bad mismanagement from the Chinese Government. Governments, scientists and doctors have been caught napping. It has been 17 years since the SARs Virus and the world still has no idea: because once a Virus is gone pharmaceutical companies do not make a profit. And doctors don't care if you live or die. Newcoms can create a booklet. One that can be updated when new information comes to hand and supply sensible advice to everyone in the community based on the main values of the community. For the current virus, a booklet could include very useful information like how to be healthy, eat more organic food, exercise more, drink alcohol in moderation, don't smoke, meditate to stay stress-free, take Vitamin D3 and A, Zinc, Magnesium Chloride, Vitamin C powder and food sources and effective/safe doses for adults and children. It could advocate the use of Hydrogen inhalers and Hydrogen tablets. Which herbs (Turmeric, Ginger, Andrographis, Cayenne Pepper, Elderberry and Cordyceps) can build your immunity and reduce inflammation and blood clotting. Essential oils (peppermint and eucalyptus) that can be used and inhaled. It would include some great recipes for chicken soup, garlic soup and Indian Curries. After careful research include ancient remedies like Lugols Iodine, Magnesium Chloride Oil, Hydrogen Peroxide and Hydrogen Gas.

Mr President, you have become the leader for all the normal people in America that work hard and make America great and not the rich intellectuals who rape and pillage people's minds and pocketbooks with lies and misrepresentation.

Please consider how, in the next four years, how you can truly make America Great Again by making American People Great Again.
